The First Guide Of Its Kind

ZTrend's guide brings business and shoppers together, making it easier for shoppers to locate the outstanding microentrepreneurial businesses sprinkled throughout the city that are so hard to find.

Since 2010 ZTrend has been offering guided shopping experiences. Face-to-face with visitors and New Yorkers, we know first-hand that people want to know where to shop, eat, and do things that are unique to New York.

No other New York City guide on the bookstore shelves captures the essence of fine local business off the beaten path, like ZTrend's guide. New York has always been a city of change and over the past several years we have witnessed the greatest change of all, with the increasing number of chain stores making their presence.

According to "NYC & Company", the official City of New York marketing, tourism and partnership organization, in 2015 it has projected 55 million visitors, generating over 70 billion in revenue.

With more visitors traveling into New York City each year, it has become increasingly more challenging for them to locate the distinct and unique artist-run businesses that are in high demand today.

ZTrend offers its expertise, highlighting the local microenterprises that make New York a memorable experience.

* Only Entrepreneurial and Microentrepreneurial businesses as defined by ZTrend are eligible for consideration into ZTrend's guide. Here ZTrend defines the following: Entrepreneurial business is a business with not more than 300 employees; a Microentrepreneurial business (may also be referred to as a Microenterprise) is a business with five or fewer employees. Many Microentrepreneurial businesses have no employees other than the self-employed owners.
